MADISON MEN FIGHTING AUSTRIANS ARE NOW BEING HELD

AUSTRIAN LOSSES LARGE; 92 DIVISIONS HAVE BEEN HURLED INTO THE BATTLE

First Day's Objective is Reached After 2 Days' Fighting

BULLETIN

LONDON — The Austrians, according to the Evening Standard, [illegible] the west bank of the Piave from the Conegliano railway to the Zenson bend, a distance of a little over a half. They have thrown [illegible] across the river. These, however, are under the Italian fire.

BULLETIN

LONDON — The German artillery was more active than usual last night along the Ancre River, south of Albert and west of Serre, according to the statement issued by the war office today.

BULLETIN

LONDON — "After three days of attack the Austrian offensive has not reached the objectives hoped for on the first day," said Andrew Bonar Law in the house of commons today. He added that there was reason to believe that the initiative for the Austrian offensive had come from Berlin.

ITALIAN ARMY HEADQUARTERS— Bitter fighting is in progress along the Piave river. The Austrians are sustaining large losses from the concentrated fire of Italian batteries. Repeated counter attacks are being made by Italian infantry, inflicting heavy casualities on the enemy.

Attack Is Stopped

(By the Associated Press)

ROME (Monday) — In their attacks between Zenson and Fossalta, along the Piave, the Austrians have been stopped everywhere, says an official statement issued tonight by the Italian war office. In the mountain region and around Montello there have been no infantry attacks of importance.

The Italian troops have taken several hundred additional prisoners and seven machine guns.

The statement reads:

"Along the mountainous front and around Montello the enemy did not undertake infantry attacks. During the night a successful thrust was carried out by our troops. We occupied [illegible] houses, capturing machine guns and hundreds of prisoners.

"Violent actions developed on Montella and along the [illegible] zone between Zenson and the sea, but the enemy everywhere was stopped by our counter fire. Several hundred prisoners remained in our hands.

"Repeated attempts to cross the river between Caserada and Candelu [illegible]

ALLEGED IDLERS HELD IN COURT· MUST GET JOBS

District Attorney and Judge Plan to Find Work for Those Not Employed

Fred Neuman, charged with being an idler and arrested by Detective William McCormick, on complaint of District Attorney Sauthoff, pleaded guilty in Superior court Tuesday morning and will stay in jail until a job is found for him. The district attorney told Judge Hoppmann that he would see that work was procured for Neuman.

He admitted that his wife did laundry work while he was idle but explained that unless she was employed she got nervous.

"I would think she would be nervous, having you idling around the house," said the district attorney. "I will try and prevent you from getting into that condition. Farmers need men and so do manufacturers. You are going to have a job.

M. R. Harrington, arraigned on a similar charge, pleaded not guilty and was held for trial under $200 bonds. His hearing comes Wednesday morning unless he can convince the district attorney that he has not been an idler.

"This is but the start of a general cleanup of men who do not work," said Mr. Sauthoff. "We have a long list of those who are habitually idle and we are going to have them in court. Under the law they can be sent to jail for 90 days. I can find jobs for them and when I do they had better stick to them or they will have to go to a jail cell. Loafers are not going to be popular in Dane county."

SUSPECT IN CHECK SWINDLE IN HEARING

Farm Hand Accused of Obtaining Money on Worthless Paper

Paul Hustad, charged with operating a confidence game was given a preliminary hearing in superior court Tuesday morning. After taking part of the testimony to be offered, a continuance was granted so that other evidence could be obtained.

Hustad who came to this country from Norway five years ago, is employed on a farm near Deerfield. He is alleged to have given a check, made out to Ole Anderson for $25 and signed by Martin Neilson, a farmer, to the proprietor of a hardware store for goods and received cash in exchange.

Efforts are being made to show that Hustad passed the check, but he contends that he was on the farm of his employer at the time the transaction at the hardware store is supposed to have taken place.

of traveling. He had an especial fondness for natural scenery, and his descriptions even of so hackneyed a subject as Niagara Falls, do not pall upon the reader. More important are the accounts he gives of conditions in our territory during its formative years—at first in the southeast, then in the more settled southwestern portion he pictures the life of the frontier with truth and vigor. Most valuable of all, perhaps, is the description he gives of the Lake Winnebago region when the rapid ingress of new settlers was at its height, and the Indians were retreating before the American advance. Among the experiences he details were those of a visit to a Menomonie Indian payment on the shores of Lake Poygan, where his clear observation of conditions among the retiring race are of peculiar value to the historian of the tribesmen. In the letters of advice which he gave to relatives who intended to immigrate, nothing was forgotten, and their detailed narration presents a full picture of the difficulties and necessities of the early immigrants from Great Britain, and the courage required to undertake the long and oft-times dangerous voyage.

A series of letters describes the writer's experience in the work of the Christian Commission during the civil war.

"Taken as a whole the Dinsdale Papers," says Mr. Quaife, "are a valuable addition to the collections of our society, illustrating as they so well do the experiences of an intelligent, educated immigrant during the formative period of territorial days. It is to be hoped that many more such groups of papers, now preserved in private hands, will ultimately find their way into our custody where they will be of value to the history of this state."

WHY NOT A LINCOLN INSTEAD OF A LIBERTY LOAN?

The Law Permits; Conditions Demand

Editor Vineland Independent:

Much is being said and written as to how best to pay the expenses of war: whether it should be paid by a system of taxation—paying as we go, or by the issuing of bonds—permitting wealth to indorse the taxpaying abilities of the citizenship, payment, plus interest, to become a burden upon future generations; only the very few giving thought to the possibility that, thus, those who are yet unborn will be bound unto perpetual slavery, made slaves to to never-to-be-paid debt; the whole world taught to believe that "a public debt is a public blessing—" to the plutocracy thereof, that no vehicle save only a Bond boat can safely "round the Horn."

Without intent in any manner to combat the right of government to determine, or to place himself in a seditious position but "just to set them thinking," as Jack Frost is wont to say, the writer desires to present to your many readers the following premises: There are but two methods whereby nations may finance government wants— major or minor, viz., (a), by what is known as the democratic method, the nation making and using its own medium of exchange—money, and (b), by the plutocratic method, wealth assuming the duty of indorsing the liabilities of government, i. e., guaranteeing the tax levies of the people; either method representative of obligations that are legislated against the sovereign people, one with, the other without interest. Nor can either method—and no matter how inequitable, be held as worthless so long as the government which utters remains supreme, is possessed of power sufficiently strong to enforce its decrees, has not become defunct, another power in control (a la Russia) and when the laws, contracts and obligations of the old cannot be enforced; even tenures in fee simple being subject to conscription and uses of the new regime. The first stated method being, as the never-to-be-forgotten Lincoln would say, "a money of the people, by the people and for the people," the second being of, by and for the plutocracy of the country; the two methods differing as night differs from day—the system in vogue determining the character of the power which governs; determines whether it is the principles of democracy or the desires of plutocracy which control and govern the tribute gathering functions of the nation—both methods representing the powers of taxation.

Differentiation between said methods divulges the fact that MONEY is the admitted, or, probably more correctly stated, is representative of the recorded liabilities of government, is its receipt for services rendrd untod th body politic, is the monetized wants of government issued in transferable form, every dollar guaranteed by the resources of the nation, everything, even the homes of the people liable the people redeeming per the exchange of values with and among themselves; the saving difference between the two methods being the interest which must be paid per the bond method, and within this difference is hidden the popularity (?) of the plutocratic method—BONDS equally secured, MONEY equally good for purposes intent. The democratic method serving the people—all the people, the other serving only the particular few, viz., those who indorse the tax debts of the people—interts no more necessary than would be a fifth wheel to a wagon; or, if paid should be paid only to government, i. e., to the people themselves.

Credit is the only available, the only scientific means wherewith to conduct the exchange wants of a people or nation; nor could the supply of this media safely be entrusted to any interest other than government—the mouthpiece of the people, and such undoubtedly was the intent of those who formulated the nation's charter of rights; said duty delegated to Congress and for government purposes only. Any other power acting could be likened only to usurpation—to subversion of the rights of a sovereign people, the few assuming a right which belongs equally to all, plutocracy absorbing to its own uses a prequisite which would produce the expenses of government many times over, and millions for the poor.

Said premises true,—and with but one purpose in view, viz., that the nation may the better be enabled to carry out and maintain its every intent and with the least injury to the producers of wealth, the writer respectfully suggests, or, rather asks the powers that be: Why would it not be the better way for government to commandeer (conscript) ALL WEALTH in times of danger, just as it conscripts an army of defence—taking over and coining the taxpaying resources of the mass people—passing a law compelling minor governments in times of stress to bond and loan to major government the credit of the people; government to issue currency thereon just as it is doing upon foreign bonds, minor governments to have the right to redeem in regular annual instalments and minus interest charges (a la federal reserve system), government issuing for every national want; currency values based upon the taxwealth of the entire nation, every dollar to be expended among the people at home—every interest equitably assessed—no one permitted to escape his just share—the tax duplicates of minor governments increased instead of decreased, all levies correctly adjusted and with not a dollar of exemptions; pre-empted wealth a thing unknown—all taxation honestly equalized—the monetary resources of the country instead of diminished—the rule of addition instead of subtraction governing—government and not special interests furnishing the inflation—all wealth bearing an equitable share of the nation's burdens.

Why should government—major or minor, ask or even permit indorsement of obligations that are fully and adequately guaranteed by the tax laws of the country, the people made to pay unnecessary interest-tribute to the indorsers, to those who run no risk whatever? Why should government provide that some might be possessed of preferred wealth and not subject to the burdens of taxation, gathering its tribute wants from others, gathering only from the real producers of wealth? Why not act upon the method proposed and used (first issue) by President Lincoln, COINING THE CREDIT OF THE NATION, a method that was approved and sustained by the Supreme Court—every dollar made a genuine legal tender—absolute money, without reservations or "exceptions" of any kind whatsoever?

But to make a long story short—and whereas the wants of government have not yet run their course (war possibly just begun) and to void possible financial chaos and danger of industrial slavery, why not a Lincoln instead of a Liberty method of securing national wants, prorating amounts needful as above stated, permitting the people, as President Wilson would say, "to become masters of their own affairs," government thus preparing for the birth of a new day a day "of greater opportunity and greater prosperity for the average mass of struggling men and women, and for greater safety and opportunity for children,"—government returning to the methods intended by the fathers? Demos Krates—let the people rule. J. J. FULTZ.

JOHN MUIR'S FIRST BOTANY LESSON TOLD

Judge Griswold of Waukesha Speaker at Dedication

BUST WAS UNVEILED

John Borroughs, the Famous Naturalist in Letter to Gathering

Judge S. Griswold, Waukesha, retold the story of John Muir's first botany lesson to an enthusiastic audience that came to the dedication of John Muir Knoll with a senatapa out under the locust tree back of North Hall, the oldest building at the University of Wisconsin, Tuesday afternoon. Judge Griswold was a teacher of botany at the University of Wisconsin, when John Muir, an enthusiastic farm boy from Green Lake county, came to take his first university lesson in 1868. Out under the same locust three where the cenotaph was unveiled this afternoon Judge Griswold picked a blossom from the locust tree and demonstrated to the embryo naturalist that the locust belonged to the pea family.

Since the death of John Muir at Los Angeles, California, December 24, 1914, a bust, a gift of Thomas E. Brittingham has been unveiled at the university. Guests of honor at the celebration this afternoon were: Prof. John B. Parkinson, '60; Milton S. Griswold, '63; Dr. Charles H. Vilas, '65; Mr. Charles E. Vroman, '68; Mr. George S. Marsh, Ex '64; and Mr. Edwin C. Mason, Ex '63. Regent Hammond of Milwaukee told of Muir's universitl career. Judge Griswold and Dr. Vilas viewed his boyhood days, and told a story of Muir's later achievements.

There came from West Park, N. Y. an affectionate letter written by the famous John Burroughs, distinguished naturalist, in which he pays tribute to the former Wisconsin student and commends the university for remembering the man. Mr. Burroughs' letter to Julius E. Olson of the university says:

"My affection and admiration for Muir were deep and genuine. When in his company I used to chafe a good deal under his biting Scotch wit and love of contradiction. He loved a verbal contest which was, with him, only another form of the trial of grit which in his school days he used to cheerfully submit to when two boys, armed with whips, used to stand up before each other and lay on till one of them cried enough. As I had never had that kind of Scotch discipline I did not keenly enjoy this sort of diversion. But his heart was all right, only he liked too well to mask its real kindliness in this way.

"He was a genuine student and lover of nature, and he has brought to us the message of the mountains as no other man has.

"In recently reading Emerson's Journals, I was struck and pleased with the fact that he places John Muir in the list of what he called "My Men." In said list the first is Thomas Carlyle, whom he first met in 1833, and the last is John Muir, whom he met in 1871. Muir's nature lore and his striking characteristics were bound to make an impression upon Emerson. He met no 'mush of concession' when he met Muir. Muir tried to persuade him to quit his party for a night and go and camp with him in the woods, but Emerson's friends objected. Muir said Emerson had the 'house habit.' But Emerson looked upon himself then as an old man, though he was only 68.

"I am glad your university is to pay this tribute to its famous and beloved old student."

SUMMER DISHES

Sandwich Filling—The following are all good fillings for sandwiches.

Take equal amounts of chopped nuts and olives moistened with salad dressing.

Boiled egg, minced ham and pickle.

Cold baked beans moistened with salad dressing, put between lettuce leaves.

Pimento and cheese.

Creamed cheese, walnuts and olives.

Cheese and green pepper.

Nuts and raisins ground and mixed (very good).

Chopped celery and hard boiled eggs.

Ground mutton, ground mint, ground pickles and lemon juice.

A mixture of cooked peas and cheese may be used for a sandwich mashed and freed from the skins by being put through a sieve may form the basis of a large variety of sandwich fillings. The cheese may be omitted and chopped celery or nuts added, or the peas may be mixed with a little butter and a few drops of vinegar or lemon juice. Leaves of lettuce dipped in salad dressing add to the attractiveness of the sandwiches.

Fruit and Nut Salad—Take two oranges and cut into small pieces, one cup chopped walnut meats; one head crisp lettuce head cut rather fine, one-quarter teaspoon salt, four teaspoons sugar or enough to suit taste.

Mix one tablespoon olive oil with one-half cup vinegar and stir into the salad. Serve in individual dishes.

Luncheon Salad—Drain liquor from one can peas and one can salmon; all one bunch best celery cut up in small pieces; mix all with mayonnaise dressing.

SALADS

Potato Salad—Cook and mash as many potatoes as desired. Pour the water off into a dish. Slice two hard-boiled eggs, one common sized onion; add two tablespoons vinegar, two tablespoons meat drippings, one-half cup sugar, a little salt. Thin with the potato water. Slice a hard-boiled egg on top.

Codfish Salad—Put a piece of salt codfish to soak over night. In the morning pour off the water, put on fresh cold water and let come to a scald. Try, and if still salt, repeat, as it wants to be tender and soft like fresh fish. Pick up, in flakes, cut a hard-boiled egg in pieces, mix with it crisp leaves, cover with the mixture and pour salad dressing over it.

Egg and Sardine Salad—Slice one head of celery and four hard-boiled eggs and place in salad bowl. Mash yolks of the eggs, four sardines, salt and pepper together and use enough cream to form a thick paste. Thin with vinegar. Mix French dressing on the celery and white of eggs and over that pour the cream dressing.

Cheese and Jelly Salad—Place a thin slice of cream cheese on a heart of lettuce, cover with currant jelly, then with another slice of cheese, sprinkle with chopped nuts and serve with boiled dressing made more delicate by the addition of whipped cream.

WOMEN ORGANIZE TO AID WOUNDED; CITIZEN DONATES HOME FOR HOSPITAL

D. S. Troxel of Elyria, Ohio, and the Ely Mansion he gave for a soldiers' convalescing home.

The mothers and relatives of soldiers in Elyria, Ohio, recently formed a "Mothers' of Democracy" club, whose purpose was to supply cheer and comfort to the American soldier. Then D. S. Troxel, one of Elyria's patriotic citizens, offered the women the use of this old mansion and estate for a convalescing hospital. The proposition was accepted immediately and the people are now preparing a home which will accommodate 150 men. Elyria is one of the first towns in the United States to establish such a home.

CLASS TRIBES BURY HATCHET WITH GOODWILL

Milton Moses, '18, Entrusts Pipe of Peace to Harold Groves, '19

Pledging their tribes to everlasting friendship the chiefs of the tribes of 1918 and 1919 smoked the great calumet, the Pipe of Peace, in token of good will, as they were silhouetted against a huge bonfire whose shooting flames showed the lower campus of the university crowded with several thousand spectators, students, alumni and friends, gathered to witness this Indian custom given at 11:30 o'clock Monday night.

Indian maidens danced the dance of peace to the rhythm of the tom-tom and reed flute, before their two chiefs, gathering at their feet as Milton Moses, the chief of the tribe of 1918, spoke.

Harold Groves, chief of the tribe of 1919, accepted the calumet and made the response.

The Indian ceremonial, marking the closing of the scholastic year of the tribe of 1918, followed the presentation of the senior class play, "A Thousand Years Ago," by Percy MacKaye, given at the open air theatre. The Chinese settings, severe in their simplicity, the stately thrones, the striking costumes, the clever acting, and the enthusiasm of the audience all combined to make the production one of the most successful as yet produced.

Miss Beatrice Humiston, as the Princess of Pekin, Turandot, pursued by her suitor, Clarence Schubert, as Calaf, who answered correctly the three riddles and won his lady, and Miss Charline Wackman as the bold Copocomico, leader of the vagabond players from Italy, carried the leading parts of the play. The other characters, taken with equal success but with less importance in the play were: Thomas Skemp, the father; Miss Elsie Buckstaff, the princess' slave; Arnold Quick, servitor to the prince; Edwin Morse, Ching; the Misses Mari Bollman, Bessie Buell, Agnes Loughlin, Marjorie Kinnan, the vagabond players.

The alumni of the different classes attending the play wanted their rivals and friends to know they were there as evidenced by the class yells and songs, started by the class of '93 before the opening of the play.

The production staff of the play was composed of the following:

General manager, Edwin F. Morse; assistant, Ethel Dummer.

Coach, Marie Bollman.

Business manager, Elizabeth Kendall; assistant, Cap Rasmussen.

Stage manager, Mead Morris; assistant, John Connelly, Clarence Schubert.

Rehearsal manager, Agnes Loughlin.

Costume manager, Jessica Colvin; assistant, Esther Forbes.

Properties master, Eleanor Schweizer; assistant, Marion Calkins.

Music, Francis Lathrop.

Advertising, Bart Warner, William Aschenbrenner, Richard J. Lowenthal, Irwin Master.

Publicity, Earle Wallis, Marjorie Hendricks, Madelyn Stanchfield.

Ushering, Imogene Burch, Jessie Evans.

WOMEN ARE BOOSTING IT

You Cannot Fool the Women

Once you have shown them and got their confidence they will stick through thick and thin to what they know and believe is a good thing.

Hundreds of women in our city are going around today with joy in their hearts and a new lease on life and health where before each day was one long "nervous drag of misery."

As one woman expressed it, "It's not the work you do, it's the way you feel that makes the drudgery, you cannot get ahead when you go to bed all in, too tired to sleep and get up in the morning half dead. Believe me I know. I certainly was a nervous wreck, every task a load, no ambition, thin, haggard and pale, an old woman before my time. Look at me now, some change, eh! Work is a pleasure, I am just bubbling over with life and good spirits, the picture of health, cheeks rosy and full of color that only ironized blood can give, while my phosphate-fed nerves are as steady as a clock, nothing worries me, I sleep like a top and feel like a girl of sixteen. Take it from me, I want Phosphated Iron to get credit for everything; too much cannot be said in its praise, it sure is the goods and everyone I have recommended it to is a booster."

This is only one of many like cases in our city, there is no need of any man or woman going around with that tired all-in feeling or any form of nervousness, if they will get next to themselves, take a brace, and stack up to a package of Phosphated Iron. It sure will spruce you up and make you feel like a live wire once more, so get busy.

To insure physicians and their patients getting the genuine Phosphated Iron we have put in capsules only. Do not take pills or tablets, insist on capsules.—C. H. Naffz, 109 King street, and leading druggists everywhere.

WOULD PUNISH KITCHIN

CLAUDE KITCHIN, democratic leader in Congress, has brought down on his head the wrath of the newspapers over the country because of his statement that the new revenue measure was brought about by a powerful publishers' lobby that wants to get in a provision to escape payment of increased second class mail rates.

Now according to the Literary Digest:

"This 'lobby' speech has led editors of all parties to a close scrutiny of the war record of the statesman who put Scotland Neck on the map."

In other words, because Kitchin is attempting to make the newspapers bear some of the burdens of the war the newspapers are going to use the loyalty issue and the war issue to defeat him.

Was Kitchin's war record satisfactory to the newspapers before he made his statement about the publishers' lobby?

"LINES TO BE REMEMBERED"

DAME rumor is so busy, so drunkenly she swerves,
It keeps a fellow busy to follow all her curves,
She points to Dick and Harry and says they're traitors foul,
For facts we do not tarry; at once we start to howl.
To blast men's reputation by charges idly made
Won't help preserve the nation or make the foe afraid.
—Walt Whitman.

HOW GOOD OF YOU

IN support of its claim that it is not a partisan democratic paper The Milwaukee Journal says: "Some months ago it (The Journal) expressed itself in favor of the reelection of Senator Nelson in Minnesota and of Senator Kenyon in Iowa."

We may now expect the republicans to be equally unpartisan and patriotic and favor the reelection of John Sharp Williams in Mississippi and Oscar D. Underwood in Alabama.

SOME ADVICE FOR EMPLOYERS

WE print herewith an editorial from the Dubuque Telegraph-Herald. So seldom is it that we find present day newspapers saying anything to employers regarding the avoidance of industrial troubles that it is refreshing to find a message of this kind. Newspapers usually have much advice for the laborer and the common man but little for the capitalist and the employer. The editorial follows:

> Capitalists, masters of industry, employers of labor, make a mistake which will bring bitter results when they deal unfairly with their employes. The results will be bitter not only to the country but to the very men who think they are benefiting themselves. Employers who pay their men just sufficient to prevent the workmen from quitting instead of paying a fair wage, a wage commensurate with the work done, are their own enemies. At any rate, they are the enemies of employers in general, for it is their conduct which causes dissatisfaction, provokes strikes and labor troubles, creates anarchists and I. W. W.'s.
> Business men, especially big business men, who do not pay fair wages are not the enemies of labor alone; they are the enemies of business. They are the worst enemies of legitimate, honest business.
> The world of business today has little to fear from the working classes. It has much to fear from the employers—manufacturers, wholesalers, jobbers, even retailers—who slink out of their taxes, underpay their workers, refuse to improve working conditions for their employes, and, in general, try to grab all they can and give as little as they must. It is such people who are threatening the economic and social structure of today and are even, through their selfishness and narrowness, jeopardizing their own welfare.

ON THE SQUARE---AND OFF

BY THE OBSERVER

Richard F. Taylor and Matt Conlin, city assessors, are putting on a lot of style these days. They are assessing property and instead of using the common automobile to get around the city they go the ordinary mortal one better and use that vehicle which is seldom seen in these times—a surrey. Mr. Taylor sits in the front seat and handles the ribbons which guide the nag and Matt occupies the rear apartment and views the scenery.

And speaking of viewing—these two gentlemen are some viewers when it gets right down to brass tacks (or we might say tax) on assessing property. They have been in the business for years and are well acquainted with property values in this vicinity. They manage to make themselves popular with the taxpayers.

Madison men who have taken advantage of the opportunity to learn the drills they will get when they are sent to the training camps should fare well when selections of non-commissioned officers are made. Many have been taking the instruction from Company L officers and already have shown great improvement.

The idea of preparing the men for service was originated by Tom Kingston, a veteran of the Spanish-American war. He realized the embarrassment men who have never been trained in military tactics felt when they were sent to camp and advanced the theory that if given the rudiments of army training they would have more confidence.

Many of the men who could not turn around on their feet without stubbing their toes now go through the drill with snap and precision.

WOMEN SMOKE, BOOST TOBACCO COST

LONDON—Interviewed by a press representative, the head of one of the largest tobacco manufacturing houses in London stated that an increase in the price of tobacco is certain. He denied that there was any holding up of supplies by the trade, either wholesale or retail.

"There is no doubt whatever," he went on to say, "that there is an increased consumption generally, both on the part of the army and on the part of the civilian population. Not only that, but women and girls, having put on men's clothes, are adopting men's habits in the matter of smoking. There are strong reasons for the increase in price, owing to the additional cost of production. The only increases made up to the present have been brought about by the duty."

State News

WAUSAU—A letter from James A. Burns, killed in action in France, written May 24, four days before his death, has been received. It stated he was at the front and in the midst of the fighting. Letters from home, he said, while the big guns were booming, took his thoughts from the trenches. With him were several other former members of Company G, formerly part of the Third Wisconsin, who have been transferred.

WAUSAU—The city is completing a reinforced concrete bridge over Big Bull Falls. The street car lines of the Wisconsin Valley Electric company crossed the old bridge. There is a controversy as to whether or not the company shall pay a portion of the cost of the new bridge and the railroad commission has been appealed to. The city asked that the relaying of the track be delayed until a decision is received.

MILWAUKEE—Thirteen Milwaukee cafes have gone up on their price of beer and soft drinks. The new price will be 10 cents in some downtown cafes. According to Joseph Budar, chairman of the cafe men, the raise will apply only to glass beer of eight ounces or less and to all 5-cent soft drinks.

GRAND RAPIDS—The local school board by a unanimous vote decided to abolish the teaching of German in the schools. Either French or Spanish or both will be added to the curriculum to take the place of German.

WAUSAU—Joseph Chapp of Knowlton was arrested and brought here on the charge of advising citizens of the state not to aid the United States in carrying on the war with Germany. It is specifically that Chapp said in the presence of three persons, "The kaiser has all the gold and we have nothing but paper money and our bonds are only paper and they are no good." Chapp was held for trial at the next term of the circuit court.

WAUSAU—According to W. R. Chellis, who returned from Milwaukee, where he attended the annual meeting of the Wisconsin Association of Commercial Secretaries, Marathon, Lincoln, Langlade and Shawano counties will probably comprise a district with headquarters at Wausau for the purpose of co-operating with the federal government in the awarding and looking after all contracts for war materials.

WAUSAU—Fifty-one applications have been made for licenses to conduct saloons in the city of Wausau for the year commencing July 1. This is ten fewer than last year and in addition one wholesale house has been discontinued. The high cost of liquor, new government restrictions, increased cost of conducting the business are among the reasons given for the decrease.

APPLETON—Articles of dissolution of the Hortonville Light, Heat and Power company were filed with the register of deeds in the city recently. This is the second company to dissolve within the last few weeks, Kaukauna having done the same about two weeks ago.

APPLETON—The American Society of Equity is being organized in this county and chapters are being formed in the various towns and villages. A county meeting is to be held at the courthouse shortly when J. N. Tittemore, candidate for governor on the farmers' ticket, will be the principal speaker.

FOND DU LAC — The Rev. Robert Hopkin, who for the past five years has been pastor of the Plymouth Congregational church, has notified his church council of his acceptance of a call to the First Congregational church of Denver Colorado, and will soon make the announcement to his congregation. He will enter upon his new duties Aug. 1. The Rev. Mr. Hopkins came to Fond du Lac from Whitewater, Wis., and prior to that had held pastorates at Columbus, Wis., Cleveland O., and Montreal, Canada.

NEENAH — Herman Dressler, 30, employed as a waiter at a beach cafe and formerly at a Milwaukee hotel, drowned while swimmnig in Lake Winnebago Friday afternoon. His home was in Milwaukee.

NEENAH — The cities of Neenah and Menasha will not fall behind the other cities in the state in paying their young men who are members of the State Guard, their salaries while they are spending the week at training camp at Camp Douglas in July. Every man will leave here with the full assurance of his full salary going on during his absence.

WAUSAU — At the last session of the county board of supervisors a bounty of 25 cents each was placed on woodchucks. The result has been astonishing in all parts of the county, large numbers being killed.

MANITOWOC — Frederick Drews pioneer settler of Mishicott, and veteran of the civil war, father of Otto Drews, superintendent of the county asylum, died at the home of his son here at the advanced age of 84 years. During the civil war he was a member of Company E, 27th Wisconsin volunteers and was discharged because of disability from injuries which bothered him in after life. Five sons and two daughters survive.

WAUSAU — Many farmers in this section whose planted corn was killed by the recent overflowing of lowlands are preparing to plant large acreages of buckwheat to take its place.

War-Savings Stamps are Worth Self-Sacrifice.

WAUSAU — The annual tournament of the Wisconsin Trapshooters association will be held in this city at the grounds of the Wausau Game and Gun club Saturday and Sunday, July 20 and 21. As a special feature a match shoot has been arranged for Sunday afternoon between Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Moon of Eau Claire and Mrs. A. H. Winkler of Chicago. After the exhibition a collection will be taken for the benefit of the Red Cross.

APPLETON—Rainbow Division soldiers have won the gold service stripe according to a letter received from Sergt. Lutz to his mother. The service stripe indicates six months' service in France. It is worn on the left sleeve of the soldier's blouse above the cuff.

A HELPING HAND OVER THE TOP

"The services of women during this supreme crisis of the world's history have been of the most signal usefulness and distinction. The war could not have been fought without them. It is high time that some part of our debt of gratitude to them should be acknowledged and paid and the only acknowledgment that they ask is their admission to suffrage. Can we justly refuse it?"—President Wilson.

Heart and Home Problems

by MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Last summer I met an out-of-town boy at a dance and he seemed to take a liking to me from the beginning. I gave him my address and we corresponded constantly and every time something was going on he would take me. He was very good looking and attentive, too.

Not long ago I met another young man not half so good looking who could not compare with him in any respect. Just because I danced with him a great deal the former got jealous and would not say good-bye, and now he does not say anything in reference to our company.

Do you suppose he is waiting for me to apologize? Is it proper for me to ask his pardon, for I love him? R. H.

You have done nothing to apologize for. The boy had not asked you to marry him and so he had no right to object to the attention you permitted the other boy to pay you. It would be a mistake to say you are sorry for something that was not your fault. A boy who is so jealous that he is willing to give you up would make a most unsatisfactory husband. Try to forget him.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl of nineteen and am keeping company with a young man twenty-one. I have been made acquainted with him through my sister's friend and have been going out with him ever since, several months. He has always treated me nicely until of late he seems indifferent to me.

I was out with him Saturday evening and I had a very nice time. His parents have a touring car and usually when they go riding they call for me. He promised last Saturday evening that, provided the weather was good, he would be down Sunday afternoon to take me riding. He did not come, but he came Sunday evening. He has a boy friend in the country whom he took his parents to see in the afternoon. Don't you think he could have taken me along? When he comes to see me he always speaks of his friend and makes me feel as if he would rather be with him than with me. Do you think he is indifferent to me and I have reason to feel hurt?

DISSATISFIED.

I think you imagine that the boy is indifferent to you. Do not allow yourself to be jealous of his friendship with the boy. It is a very fine thing and you should be glad he has so close a friend. You have no reason to feel hurt because he did not take you riding Sunday afternoon as long as he was with you Sunday evening.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl of eighteen and go with a fellow twenty-one. I like him and he likes me, but he is acting differently of late and gives me the impression that he is tiring of me.

What would you do? Should I give him a chance to go with other girls? I like him too well to give him up for good. BLONDE.

Yes, give him a chance to go with other girls. It would be well for you to go with other boys, too, if you are not already doing so. Do not let him come to see you every time he asks to. If he thinks you are engaged by other boys he will be all the more eager for your company himself.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: We are two girls of fifteen. Are we too young to go to public dances?

Yes, you are too young.

MISERY LOVES COMPANY

From the Nation's Business.

The cost of living at present is a matter of real concern to our diplomatic and consular representatives in foreign countries. According to the State Department, the percentage of increase over 1916 is:

Italy	60
Spain	25
Greece	250
Switzerland	90
Sweden	225
Denmark	70
France	50
Holland	60

The figure for Switzerland contains a bit of solace when one remembers that Germany has some four hundred men on its diplomatic staff at Berne.

THIS IS WHAT THE KAISER CALLS "SUCCESS," MAKING THOUSANDS OF FRENCH FOLK HOMELESS

French refugees retreating before the Germans.

Every gain of the German forces on the western front is heralded as a "great success" by the kaiser in messages to the German people. Each one of these lunges forward drives thousands of French folk from their homes. The picture shows a band of French refugees hurrying away from the battle front.

AT THE THEATRES

ORPHEUM

The animal act showing cats, dogs, racoons and rabbits in clever performing maneuvers stands out as the best on the bill at the Orpheum the first half of this week. Hurdling, jumping through the hoop, and the balloon ascension which follows the act with three cats jumping for the parachute and the dog for the parachute and the various perched acts, feature the performance.

Jack Lavier, flying monologist, an Orpheum favorite, puts on some entertaining trapeze work interspersed with conversation which isn't so entertaining in itself but helps along the act.

"Meadowbrook Lane," the playlet, tells the story of a widow, landlord, grocery and delivery boy, showing the beautiful widow about swindled out of her property by a miserly landlord, but saved at the last minute by the "stranger's" clever impersonation which puts the landlord out of the track.

Grace de Winters, ventriloquist, gave some clever impersonations of Harry Lauder, Raymond Hitchcock, and George Cohan.

The Brads appeared in comedy make-ups in a conversationless tumbling act showing some good and a few new feats.

FULLER

For the Douglas Fairbanks' new screen comedy picture, "MR. FIX-IT," a complete first floor of a palatial New York home of wealth, from entrance room to library, was constructed.

"MR. FIX-IT" is a comedy of the farcical class, in which role Mr. Fairbanks expounds the theory of happiness for human-kind and his contentment is that one can only be happy by bringing happiness to others. It is one practice of this homeless philosophy in this palatial home, filled with fashionable people, that brings about many mirth-provoking complications. There is a sustained plot which has a distinct heart appeal. A thrilling scene takes place in the slums, where Mr. Fairbanks battles with desperate gangsters, and from whom he escapes by swinging across the street on a swaying election banner.

In "MR. FIX-IT" appears many notable cinema players. These include Wanda Hawley, Marjorie Daw, Catherine MacDonald, Frank Campeau and Leslie Stuart. "MR. FIX-IT" will appear at the Fuller Theatre, last times today.

COMING TO THE GRAND

Manager Sherwood of the Grand theater has scored the scoop of years in motion pictures by obtaining "Over the Top," the itagraph special in which Sergeant Arthur Guy Empey, author of the famous book, appears in the leading role, "Over the Top," Manager Sherwood announces, will be shown at the Grand for four days beginning Saturday. He is planning to make it one of the biggest events in the history of the theater, and will have special decorations and music during the run of the picture.

"Over the Top," in book form, is the most widely read and probably the best known of any book published in recent years. Its sale is said to have been the greatest and it is known that more than 3,000,000 have read it. In addition, the story has been reprinted in hundreds of newspapers all over the country, and it has been estimated that Empey's name and that his book have been read daily for at least six months by more than 25,000,000. This probably makes Empey the best known individual outside of public life whom the war has produced.

WISCONSIN COAL REGULATIONS ARE ISSUED

Fitzgerald Sends Out Rules on Use Effective After June 12

Rules and regulations governing the distribution and use of coal in Wisconsin, effective on and after June 12, 1918, until further notice, which have been sent out by W. N. Fitzgerald, federal fuel administrator for Wisconsin, are as follows:

Rule 1. Anthracite coal to manufacturing plants: Our attention has been called to the fact that many manufacturers are asking for shipments of domestic anthracite coal, namely, grate (or broken) to pea inclusive, who in the past have used either in whole or in part other fuel. In order that this coal can be conserved for the householders and the regular users of this fuel, this office desires that all requests for domestic anthracite for purely manufacturing purposes be referred here as to whether or not shipment shall be made. If it is found that such manufacturers have been regular users of this fuel in the year 1916 or prior to that year, for purely manufacturing purposes, and cannot now under any circumstances use bituminous coal instead, permission will be granted, but in no case will a manufacturer be entitled to this fuel for a quantity greater than was delivered to such manufacturer in the coal year of 1916. Dealers are hereby instructed to sell anthracite coal to manufacturers without written permission from this office.

Rule 2. The provisions of Rule 1 also apply to all school houses, public buildings, store buildings, apartment houses and institutions of every description. No person, firm, association or corporation shall sell or deliver anthracite coal to any consumer listed in this paragraph without the written permission of the state fuel administrator.

Rule 3. Restricted deliveries of anthracite coal to domestic consumers. Paragraph one of the "Retail Distribution Plan for Year 1918" reads in part as follows:

"When all consumers, who are willing to accept it, have received two-thirds of their normal annual requirements, the dealers may proceed to fill the balance of such orders up to normal annual requirements of each consumer."

This provision is hereby modified. From the effective date hereof dealers shall not in any case deliver the remaining one-third to a consumer until instructed to do so by this office. (Deliveries of a consumer's normal annual requirements up to six tons may be made in full.)

Rule 4. Chestnut size anthracite coal must be reserved for self-feeding magazine stoves and dealers are hereby instructed not to sell this size for any other purpose unless permission is given.

Rule 5. Anthracite coal shall not be delivered to any domestic consumer who can use bituminous coal. If the dealer is in doubt after ascertaining from the description given on the consumer's application blank as to whether or not bituminous coal can be used, the local fuel administrator shall be called upon to make final decision.

Rule 6. Residences whose normal annual requirements exceed thirty tons, shall not be supplied with more than twenty tons on the first delivery. Unless the situation clears up materially, large residences must close off certain rooms in the interest of conservation.

Rule 7. Consumers of bituminous coal for threshing purposes only are not required to fill out blank form No. 60 (Consumer's Application blank) before securing the coal needed. However, a record of each sale shall be kept by the dealer and reported semi-monthly.

Rule 8. All sales and deliveries of more than one-half ton must be reported in detail semi-monthly. All sales and deliveries of one-half ton and less can be totalled at the end of each day and reported as one delivery. The various kinds and sizes must be reported separately, however, and the selling price stated.

Rule 9. Deliveries to domestic consumers must be made consecutively in the order of the receipt of their application blanks.

(Himself)

"OVER THE TOP" is the one story of life in the trenches that has touched every responsive soul in America.

Since the book was published, 250 copies have been sold during every business hour, every day. In all, more than 2,500,000 people have read it. More than 20,000,000 people have read Empey's articles in the great newspapers of the country. Many thousands have been fortunate enough to crowd their way into the limited capacity of the great halls where Empey has lectured.

Now, the whole loyal citizenship of the nation can see the "Fighting Sergeant" in action, can go "over the top" with him on the Hun Hunts. The marvel of motion picture photography brings to life before your very eyes the pulsing, breathing pages of "the most widely read book of the twentieth century."

5,952 APPLY FOR WORK AT U. S. OFFICES

Number of Applicants Decrease; 9,126 Called by Employers

A pronounced shortage in the number of applicants for work is shown in the report of the operations of the government employment offices in this state during the month of May published by the industrial commission. During this month the total number of applicants for work at the six government employment offices was 5,954, while 9,126 working men and working women were called for by employers. The number of applicants for work was almost the same as during the month of May, 1917, when there were only four offices in operation. On the other hand 3,000 more men were called for by employers during May, 1918, than during May, 1917.

The greatest shortage appears to be in the common labor class. While 1,411 general laborers were called for by employers, only 781 workmen were sent out in this class by the employment offices. Similarly, 336 unskilled men were called for by shops in the metal trades and only 84 workmen were sent out to them. There is also a great excess in the demand for casual laborers. In view of the pronounced shortage of labor, the employment offices have adopted the policy of not sending out any able bodied men for casual work, and this accounts for the fact that only half of the calls for casual help were filled. As in the previous month, the demand for women was very keen and only a small part of the calls for women help could be filled.

During the last week the employment office at Superior has been moved to new and enlarged quarters, and the office force has been materially increased. This action has been taken because Superior is recognized by the United States Employment Service to be one of the most important labor centers of the northwest. With only two employes in this office it handled 1,236 applicants in May, 1918, and many who sought work could not be accommodated by the small force in the office. With the enlargement of the service at Superior it is expected that this office will become one of the most important in the entire middle west.

WAR DEMANDS CLOSE BARACA CLUB

The Baraca club, formed two and a half years ago, to provide a home and social center for boys, has closed, having lost most of its members in the war. Of the membership of 49 practically everyone is in the service. The club was located at 29 East Dayton street.

FOND DU LAC — With about 1500 men in line the big patriotic parade led by Gov. E. L. Philipp, practically closed the annual state convention of the Elks here Saturday afternoon. An auto parade was held Friady night, followed by public Flag day ceremonies at which Senator Roy Wilcox of Eau Claire spoke. A pavement dance followed the ceremonies.

JAPAN SENDS THIS THREE-PIECE ROBE

To the flowery kingdom of Japan we owe this pretty oriental lounging robe. It is a three-piece garment. CARNIVAL OPENS TO BIG CROWD

About 3,000 Attend Benefit Performance for Hospital Unit

The H. W. Campbell's United Shows carnival being held for the benefit of the Major Lorenz hospital unit in France under the auspices of the Spanish American war veterans, opened Monday night at the baseball park on East Washington avenue with a crowd of about 3,000 in attendance.

A parade on the uptown streets preceded the performance and drew a crowd of spectators. Twelve paid shows are on the ground.

The lucky numbers on the Liberty bonds were held by Mrs. Meyers, C 516; Philip Fauerbach, C 267; and Edward Swain, scoutmaster. The latter bond was given to scout troop No. 22. to be sold.

Braves Take Both Ends of Twin Bill With St. Louis Giants Climb on Cubs

CLEVELAND — Cleveland made it four straight from Philadelphia, 8 to 3. Pitcher Scott Perry, for whom Manager Connie Mack went into court Monday and secured a restraining order preventing the Boston Braves from interfering with his services with the Athletics, pitched and lost his first game since the National commission's ruling deciding the favor of Boston.

Perry was effective until the sixth when Evans' home run followed three singles and a pass, netting five runs.

It was Bat and Ball fund day, 25 per cent of the Cleveland club's receipts going to the Griffith fund to purchase baseball equipment for American soldiers. Score:

Judge Grants Athletics Use of Pitcher Pending Final Hearing; Ban Favors Mack

Signed by Philadelphia as Free Agent, But is Awarded to Boston by Commission

CLEVELAND — The national baseball agreement between the American and National leagues is in danger of being abrogated as a result of a suit filed in common pleas court Monday by Manager Connie Mack of the Philadelphia Americans, asking for an injunction restraining the Boston Nationals from interfering with his playing pitcher, Scott Perry, awarded to the Boston Nationals by a majority vote of the national commission.

Common Pleas Judge Morgan granted the restraining order, allowing the Philadelphia Americans full and uninterrupted use of Perry pending final hearing of the suit.

History of Perry Case

Perry was purchased by Boston from Atlanta last year, partial payment being made. After seventeen days of "bench duty" Perry left the Boston team. He was not on the Boston reserve list last winter, and Manager Mack signed him as a free agent, and he pitched three full games and part of another this season before the Boston team put in a claim for him, according to Manager Mack.

Recently Chairman August Herrmann of the national commission, with President John K. Tener of the National league concurring, and President B. B. Johnson of the American league dissenting, awarded Perry to the Boston Nationals.

Manager Mack refuses to abide by the decision and says he will fight to hold Perry.

No Word From Tener

NEW YORK—In the absence of President John K. Tener of the National league, other officials of the organization refused to comment upon the action of Manager Mack of the Philadelphia Americans in securing an injunction preventing the Boston Nationals from making use of the services of Pitcher Scott Perry.

Braves Ready to Fight

BOSTON—"Connie Mack's unusual procedure in resorting to a court of law to nullify a decision of the national commission will not deter the Boston National league club one iota in seeking to gain possession of Pitcher Scott Perry," Walter E. Hapgood, business manager of the club, announced today.

"Perry has been declared the property of the Boston club by organized baseball's court of last resort, and every club in each major league is pledged to support and abide by decisions of this nature. It is a very radical move on the part of the Athletics and is likely to lead to interesting developments."

Says Mack Is Right

CHICAGO—President Ban Johnson of the American league on Monday night declared that Manager Mack, of the Philadelphia Americans, was entirely within his rights in going to court to attempt to nullify the award by the national commission of player Perry to the Boston Nationals, and added that "the American league will claim Perry until the final decision."

"The decision of the national commission in awarding Perry to Boston, was, in my opinion, unfair," said President Johnson. "Perry was signed by Philadelphia after he had been declared a free agent. The National league made no effort to get him until after Mack had spent time and money in developing him. Mack has a perfect right to go to court." Johnson, American league representative of the national commission, cast the dissenting vote when the award was given by that body.

WISCONSIN SPIRIT

"Wounded in the arm, feeling fine, don't worry, Eddie." Those were the words which Eddie Stavrum, famous Wisconsin football star, sent to his parents, Monday, from a hospital "somewhere in France."

The former Badger was picked for all-western end by football scribes during three consecutive years. He entered the First Fort Sheridan training camp, a year ago, and won a commission. Stavrum is now a lieutenant of artillery "over there."

Other football stars of the University of Wisconsin who are now in France are Ralph Scott '20 and "Red" Kelly '17 of the 1917 team. They are all prepared to do their bit" for Uncle Sam, and to make the supreme sacrifice if necessary.

Two of the biggest finds of the year in the National league—Ray Schmandt and Charlie Hollocher—are St. Louis boys. Another St. Louis boy who would be a find if properly encouraged is Jap Smyth of the Cards, but being a home-town boy he has found the going very hard. Smyth is now warming the bench while Marty Kavanagh, formerly of the Indians, is performing stunts around the keystone territory.

Italy Latest Victim to Fall For "Sport Germ"; Baseball Aids Morale of Army Troops

General Pennella, Commander of Second Italian Army, Praises Great American Games in Letter to Sport Paper; Recreation Chases Gloom for Soldiers

One of the curious effects of the war is the international interest which has been aroused in American sports. Italy apparently is the most recent victim of the baseball germ. Football, as played in America, as well as the national game of this country, also has taken hold of the popular interest in Italy.

The Gazetta dello Sport, one of the most influential sport journals of that country, is raising a fund for the purchase of baseballs, bats, and footballs, and the distribution of prizes among the soldiers to stimulate competition.

Likes Baseball Especially

Gen. Pennella, commander of the second Italian army, in a letter to the Gazetta dello Sport, says football and baseball games are of inestimable value in the training for war. He praises the initiative of the Gazetta dello Sport and says he firmly believes the stimulation of baseball and football competition among the various units of the Italian army will have the most gratifying and important results in maintaining the morale of the troops.

Necessary to Army Training

"I look upon this form of sport," he says, "as an integral part of military training. Solace and diversion are especially necessary in trench warfare. During the inevitable lulls in this kind of warfare the morale of the men is likely to suffer, and they need the kind of recreation that will chase away gloom and stimulate the spirit.

"Sports and games take out of a man the moral and physical kinks contracted in the trenches. I consider it a matter of vital importance to the nation that interest in sport be stimulated not only in the army but also among the civilian population."

Young Chicago Spitballer Stars Broke Into Big Show At Eighteen

Frank Shellenbach.

This lad, Frank Shellenbach, is delivering the goods in sizeable quantities for the Chicago White Sox. Shellenback is a spitballer, and as such pitchers go, he is a promising great.

The youngster hasn't pitched a bad game this season. Shellenback hasn't acquired all his strength yet, being only twenty years old, and doubtless will fill out a lot more.

He is an all-round athlete. At Santa Clara college, California, he was a star basketballer, and a great Rugby linesman. He was still in knee trousers when he pitched for Hollywood high against Los Angeles. Shellenback is one of the few eighteen-year-olds who have had a chance to break into the majors. He was only eighteen when the Sox secured him a year ago last spring from a little copper league in Nevada. Chicago turned him over to Providence last season for seasoning.

There are at least seven other managers in the American league who will tell you he is thoroughly seasoned now. Manager Rowland is counting upon the youngster to fill the gap created by the departure of Urban Faber, hero of the 1917 world's series, who is headed for the navy.

Great Demand For Coaches Shown In Opening Of School For Trained Men At Illinois

Military Training Will be Offered at Summer Session so That Men Can take Charge of This Work in Colleges and Schools in Addition to Coaching

URBANA, Ill.—The opening of the University of Illinois school for coaches Tuesday calls attention to the inroads which the war has made on available men to take charge of athletic teams. That the supply does not begin to meet the demand is evidenced by the experience of Director Huff during the last school year. From last September, until now he has received fifty requests from colleges and high schools asking for recommendations for coaching positions.

"In response to these requests we have been able to suggest only three men," Director Huff says. "The truth is that the coaches can't be provided. Naturally the university graduates who have gone into this work previously are now in the war. Many institutions will have to get along without a trained coach. Even before the war the demand exceeded the supply."

Registration Drops in War

The university school for coaches was established to meet this want and previously to the war was growing rapidly. In 1916 there were 198 students, but last summer registration dropped to 49. It is not expected to be any larger this summer.

As usual, Director Huff and his coaching staff—Bob Zuppke, football; Harry Gill, track, and Ralph Jones, basketball — comprise the corps of instructors. Illinois field is the laboratory and here the coaches illustrate their points. Baseball, football, track and basketball are demonstrated, often by actual games.

Many coaches attending this summer will also take a course in military training to be offered in the university summer school. They will then take charge of this work in their colleges or high schools.

Here's the Curriculum

What kind of a curriculum does the school offer? Here it is:

Baseball—Theory and practice in batting, base running, proper method of fielding each position, team work and coaching methods, study of the rules, physical condition, indoor practice, lectures and practical work.

Track and field athletics—Instruction and demonstration in starting, sprinting, distance running, hurdling, high and broad jumping, pole vaulting, shot putting, hammer throw and discus; practical talks on methods of preparing contestants for different events; adaptations to individual peculiarities; rules of competition; study of physical condition; promotion, management, and officiating at games and meets.

Basketball — Instruction with the idea of fitting men to coach. The course will cover passing, goal throwing, dribbling, team play, how to condition a team, and the different styles of play used by leading coaches.

Football — The theoretical work will take up the rules from the standpoint of coach, players, and officials; the several styles of offense and defense with consideration of their especial strength and weaknesses; generalship and strategy. The practical work will include: Training, conditioning and players' equipment; punting, drop kicking, kickoff, and forward pass; tackling dummy and charging sled; special drills for linesmen, ends and backs; following the ball, interference, and team work; fundamental plays, freak plays, and signal systems.

Training—Theories of training, massage, treatment of sprains, bruises, etc.; bandaging and first aid.

WISCONSIN RECORD

Due to a regrettable error, the time made by Henry C. Dennis '20 of the university in the 10 mile walk was said to have established a new world's mark. Dennis' time of one hour and fifty-four minutes establishes a new record for Wisconsin. One hour, fifteen minutes, and fifty-seven and two-fifths seconds is the amateur record which was made by G. E. Larner, London, England, July 17, 1908.

News from Los Angeles is that Happy Heilman and Eric Erickson of the Detroit Tigers have decided to enlist in the submarine service at an San Diego station.

STATE WARNED TO LOOK OUT FOR DISEASE

Terrible Child's Malady May Impend Unless Precautions Taken

Abandon that feeling of security against infantile paralysis, if you have any, warns the state board of health. Too much is in the scale in this momentous war year to throw our state needlessly into the grip of another poliomyelitis epidemic, declares a statement issued.

At a time when the machinery of government in all states is being used to combat child deterioration and to save child lives, an outbreak of this malady similar to that of 1916 will spoil the record and deplete the forces which should make up the next generation of citizens.

Gotham Example Valuable.

The state board points to New York city's experience as a lesson for Wisconsin. The epidemic there started in the squalid districts and spread to other sections until 20,000 cases were recorded, with nearly 5,000 deaths. Absolute cleanliness was the slogan to prevent a continuation of the epidemic. The cleanliness established to abate infantile paralysis had such a bearing upon other diseases commonly due to filth and insanitary surroundings that the death rate in the district where infantile paralysis was prevalent, including the 5,000 deaths from that disease, was lower than ever before in the city's history.

Numerous hospitals, housing 22,000 children, were located in certain tenement districts in New York where infantile paralysis was prevalent in the tenement houses. The protection through cleanliness given to the 22,000 children in the hospitals surrounded by thousands of cases of infantile paralysis prevented every child in these hospitals from contracting the disease.

Extra Care in Hot Weather.

The only known method to abate epidemics of this disease says the state board, is a general cleaning up of every nook and corner where the disease exists, and keeping the surroundings clean afterwards. The board is therefore urging citizens and communities everywhere to follow up their earlier clean-up activities and keep houses, yards and outbuildings sanitary throughout the year, and especially during the hot months of summer when flies are most in evidence.

BIG PLANS FOR WAR GRAFT ARE EXPOSED

Many Places Raided Over the Country; Fees Were Sought

(By the Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — Several thousand letters and documents containing proofs of an elaborate system of obtaining government contracts on the illegal contingent fee basis, were received today by the department of justice from its agents who conducted raids on hundreds of contractors' business offices late yesterday. The commissions paid on these contracts, it was disclosed, ranged from five to 20 per cent and the aggregate fees probably run into millions of dollars. Evidence was discovered of hundreds of contracts made under these arrangements heretofore unsuspected by the department of justice. Manufacturers were threatened in many cases of being deprived of contracts if they refused to negotiate with these agents on a commission compensation plan. Some agents represented that they had special influence over members of congress. Other information came to the department from manufacturers who had been solicited by contract commission agents located in Washington. The manufacturers offered their assistance in stamping out the illegal system.

An immediate result of the disclosures was a letter sent by Attorney General Gregory to heads of all government departments making war contracts, proposing that all future contracts should contain a clause pledging the manufacturer not to employ any third party in negotiations with the government.

Among the places where raids were made were Eau Claire and Milwaukee.

BECKER PROVIDES NEW BAIL BOND

A new bail bond in the sum of $5,000 was filed in federal court, Monday, by Judge John M. Becker, Monroe, recently indicted by the grand jury at Superior, under the espionage act. The new bond is signed by Fred Blumer, J. J. Aeschliman, Alvin P. Rote and Otto Prieve, Monroe men. Judge Sanborn approved the bond and released Louis Hirsig and William D. Schoenfield of Madison, who signed the original bond.

WAUSAU — The first English Lutheran congregation in this section has just been organized at a meeting held at St. Stephen's Evangelical church. Rev. George Beckman of Ixonia, Wis., will have charge of the congregation. Plans are being made for a new house of worship.

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. — Journeymen Barbers' union, No. 258, has just been completed.

FREIGHT RATES TO BOOST WHEAT PRICE

"The advance in freight rates on the 24th of June will in justice to the farmer necessitate an advance in the price of wheat of a few cents a bushel," says Hoover.

"The advance will be worked out so as to equalize as far as may be possible the loss that the farmers would otherwies incur through the increase in rates. The details of rate advance will probably not be known until June 25 at which date we are assembling a committee of traffic experts to consider that actual advance in price is necessary in compensation. It is impossible to complete such a plan for a few days after the above date.

"It is our intention so far as the peculiar character of the rate advance enables us to do so to work out a plan that will leave the farmer in the same intrinsic position that he was in before the rise in freight rates."

NEW YORK STOCK

NEW YORK—Moderate reactions among leaders in the stock market today affected the general list in the first hour but prices rallied later on United States Steel's vigorous rebound. Reading's rise of 1½ points also inspired confidence, although other rails made little or no progress. Marine preferred made a sudden spurt and equipments were featured by American Locomotive which recovered its 1¼ point dividend and as much besides. Liberty 3½'s sold at 99.60 to 99.64; first 4's at 94.16 to 94.30; second 4's at 94.10 to 94.28 and 4¼'s at 96.10 to 96.30.

FIGHT RAGES ON THE PIAVE; LOSSES LARGE

(northeast of Treviso) were bloodily repulsed. On the lower Piave other counter offensive actions in the course of development resulted advantageously for us."

Check Austrian Advance

(By the Associated Press)

Austria's offensive against the Italian front has been checked for the moment if not brought to complete failure. Fighting has ceased in the mountains from Lake Garda to the Piave where the allies broke up the first enemy blows. Along the Piave the Austrians have been unable to advance from the western bank of the river.

Despite months of preparation and a stupendous preliminary bombardment, the Austrian attack in the north on the Asiago plateau and between the Brenta and the Piave collapsed almost at its inception before the stout resistance of the French and Italians.

In counter thrusts the Italians Monday regained several positions in the mountains.

Around Montello, just below where the battle line reaches the Piave, the British still hold their positions awaiting further efforts but the enemy made no attacks there Monday. The enemy command is reorganizing its shattered units.

Between Zenson and Fossalta, a distance of less than three miles, the Austrians succeeded in crossing the river after having been defeated in efforts to debouch north and south of these points. Zenson is east of Treviso and if the Piave line should break while the northern line holds, the Venetian plains would be open to the invaders.

Rome, however, in its latest statement, reports that all the Austrian efforts to enlarge the gains on the western bank between Zenson and Fossalta have been checked by counter attacks.

Prisoners taken by the Italians French and British now total 5,000.

The latest report from Vienna makes claim of no marked gains except the capture of Capo Sile, on the west bank of the Piave south of Fossalta. The number of prisoners is now reported as 12,000.

Emperor Charles is reported to be in the southern Trentino directing the offensive and dispatches from Switzerland say that thousands of troops are being sent into the Trentino. Further Austrian efforts undoubtedly may be expected.

Activity on the front in France continues of a minor character. German efforts to drive the French from their new gains around Hautebraye, northwest of Soissons, were repulsed by the French who increased their captures to 370 prisoners. Small raids have been carried out by the Germans against positions in Picardy and Flanders.

American positions northwest of Chateau Thierry are being bombarded heavily with gas shells and there are indications that the enemy may again try to drive the Americans from Belleau wood and other territory recently gained. The enemy artillery fire also has increased along the Marne east of Chateau Thierry but there has been no infantry activity. On the Luneville front enemy raiders have captured a few American prisoners while in the Vosges, in Alsace, American gunners broke up a German raid.

1,000,000 Americans

PARIS—Ninety-two Austrian divisions consisting of 80 divisions of infantry and 12 of cavalry have been hurled into the greatest battle that Italy has yet fought, according to an official announcement at Rome. Seventy-one of these divisions have already been identified.

The forces engaged comprise three-fourths of the whole Austrian army and the best troops under the command of Field Marshal Borroevic.

The number of men in an Austrian division is not exactly known but the number of divisions engaged would indicate that approximately one million Austrian soldiers have been thrown into the battle.

Papers found on officers show that after forcing the passage of the Piave, the first day's objective was the Treviso-Montebelluna railroad. In two days of fighting the enemy columns succeeded only in realizing the minimum assigned for the first day.

But one single allied aviator has been lost during the Austrian offensive, while 44 enemy machines have been brought down.

"In artillery and airplanes Austria is using all her available resources," says the official note, "Not less than 7,500 cannon of all calibres have been brought into action. Three Austro-Hungarian armies under the command of Field Marshal Borocvic are engaged in fighting desperately with enormous military means. Ordered to advance at any cost, without thought of blood sacrifice, the Austro-Hungarian regiments readily obey. Thousands of corpses strew the battlefield overlooking the mountainous Italian sector and accumulate along the Piave, but the objectives which the enemy was to reach are yet far away."

LENROOT IN ATTACK ON BUCHANAN

Wisconsin Senator in Objection to Bust of Former President

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Although the senate by a vote of 51 to 11 today adopted the house resolution providing for erection of a statue in Washington of former President James Buchanan, the loyalty of the ante-bellum president was bitterly assailed by several senators, among them Senator Lodge of Massachusetts and Senator Lenroot of Wisconsin.

Senator Lenroot said that he could not square his conscience in making patriotic appeals to the people in this crisis of the nation if he voted to erect a monument to a president who had said that the union of states could not be preserved by force of arms.

Today, Senator Lenroot said, we do not erect monuments to men who express sentiments injurious to the flag as Buchanan's sentiments were, "but we put them in the penitentiary."

Senators who voted against the resolution were Dillingham, Hitchcock, Kenyon, Lenroot, Lodge, McCumber, Norris, Smoot, Sterling, Townsend, and Watson, all republicans.

In defending Buchanan several senators, admitting that he made mistakes, insisted that his loyalty was unquestioned and compared some of his sentiments to those of Lincoln. This resemblance Senator Lenroot disputed.

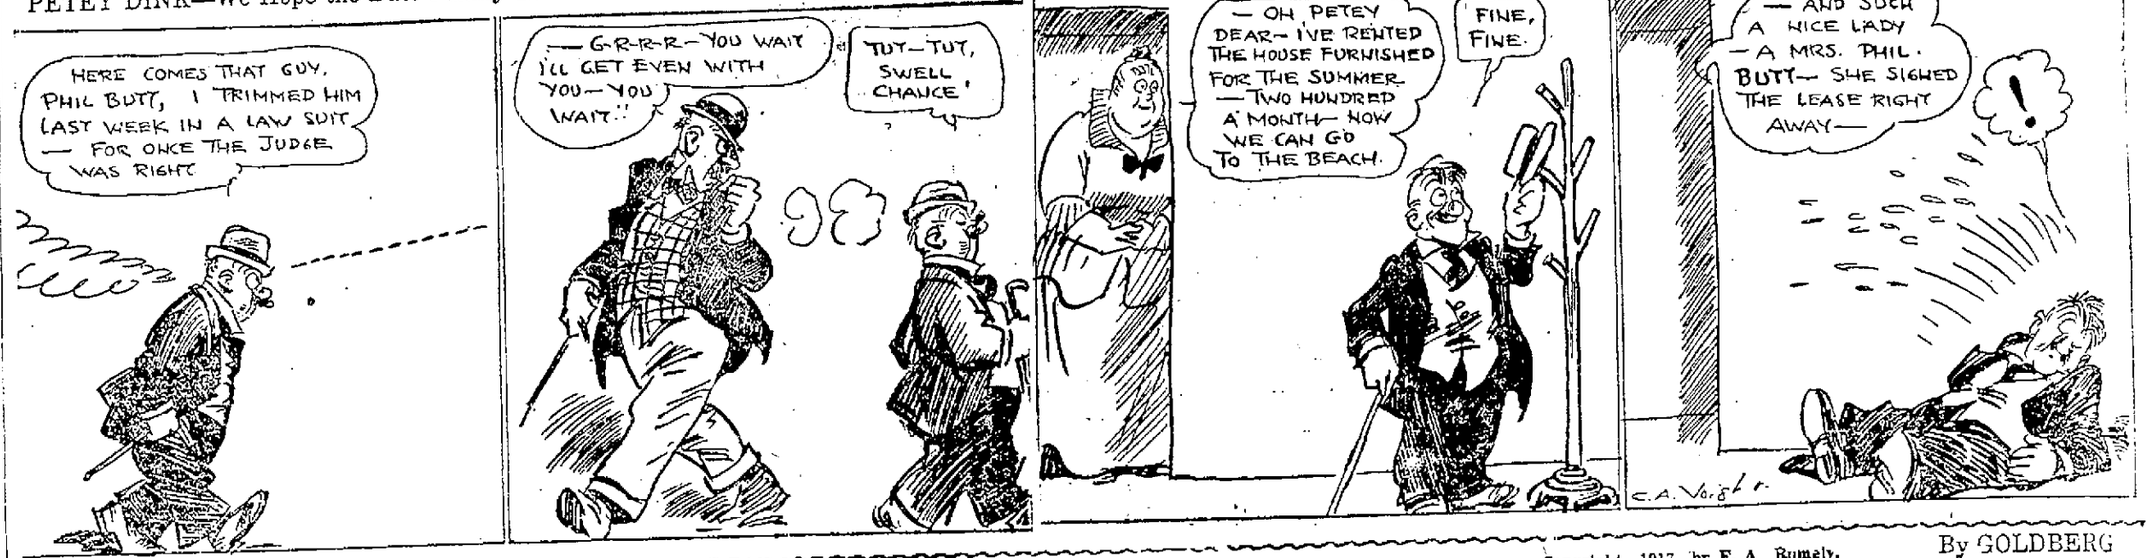

"I do not know what might have been the result had Lincoln been president during the time that Buchanan was president," Mr. Lenroot said, "but it is possible that if you had had a Lincoln as president of the United States from 1856 to 1860 that awful war might have been averted; but when the president of the United States said to those who were contemplating rebellion against their flag that the government of the United States was powerless to prevent them was it not a direct invitation to bring on the situation that afterward developed?

"In some of the apologies that have been made for Mr. Buchanan it has been said that Mr. Buchanan was willing to use the army and the navy to protect government property; it is said that if the south had fired upon Fort Sumter when he was president he, too, would have defended it; but Mr. President how could Mr. Buchanan as president of the United States have defended or sought to prevent by force seceding from the union and if the states had a right to secede or if we could not prevent them from seceding how could federal laws have operated throughout the seceding states?

"From every standpoint, while Mr. Buchanan may have been conscientious and may not have taken the position that he did in the hope of future political preferment, while he may not have been disloyal, there was nothing in Mr. Buchanan's life as president of the United States which entitles him to any mark of distinction at the hands of the American people.

"In this hour of stress of this republic we have many men who are conscientious, but if they express sentiments against the union injurious to our flag today as Buchanan's sentiments were injurious to the union then, we do not erect monuments to them now, but we send them to penitentiaries."

Documents and Letters of Dead Senator Issued by Historical Society

DEAL WITH WAR

M. M. Quaife Declares Documents Are of Great Importance at Present Time

Unpublished letters giving the stand of Paul O. Husting, late United States senator from Wisconsin, on the present crisis of the war are made public today by the Wisconsin Magazine of History, issued here. The article is edited by M. M. Quaife, secretary of the Wisconsin Historical society. Three important letters heretofore unpublished are printed.

"The advent of the world struggle which still rages between the forces of autocracy and democracy," said Mr. Quaife in the introduction, "found our nation as a whole, and many of us as individuals, unprepared to meet the new conditions and to withstand the test of the new issues with which we were confronted. But it did not find the mind of Paul Husting wanting in the needful qualities of intellect, or his soul in those of courage.

"In the brief period of service as senator from Wisconsin he revealed himself as one of Wisconsin's greatest sons, and his untimely death in October, 1917, was a genuine calamity, both to state and to nation in their hour of trial and danger. Not often does the opportunity occur to a historical journal to publish documents fraught at the same time with a high degree of historical value and of interest for their bearing on issues still current. Such an opportunity, we think, is afforded the Wisconsin Magazine of History in connection with the documents. The letters speak for themselves and aside from certain minor typographical corrections we present them unedited. However, we cannot refrain, in concluding this introductory note, from calling the reader's attention to the significance of the dates of the several letters; the first, following the sinking of the Lusitania; the second, at the time the embargo-on-munitions discussion was rife; the third, following our entrance into the world war."

TURNVEREIN IN FLAG DEDICATION

20 Men Are Represented in the Service; Kroncke Presides

About twenty men of the Madison Turnverein were honored at the Turner hall when the service flag was dedicated.

The flag was a gift of the ladies' auxiliary and the presentation speech was made by Miss Macy Jungmann. George Kroncke, president of the Turnverein, accepted the flag in behalf of the society.

The sum of $6,000 was subscribed by the Turners and their families, directly after the third liberty loan campaign was launched. Besides this the Turnverein purchased $500 worth of liberty bonds.

The honor roll of the Turnverein is as follows:

Richard Boissard, automobile operating unit, on way to France.

Karl Fauerbach, 28th inf., Co. I, train division, France.

Alexander Drives, camp quartermasters' department, Camp Grant.

Edwin Kehl, ward master, post hospital, on way to France.

Leonard S. Lunder, master engineer, quartermaster department, New York.

Luther Moll, M. G. Co., 57, inf., Camp Logan, Tex.

Carl Naffz, second lieutenant, inf., Camp Upton, N. Y.

Fred W. Neubauer, 47th inf., Camp Green, N. C., probably in France.

Walter Placner, supply sergeant, depot brigade 161st., Camp Grant

Paul Porter, corporal supply company, A. F. 27, France.

Rudolph Scheibel, first lieutenant, on way to France.

Herman Stehr, aviation corps, France.

Hugo Stock, second lieutenant, aviation corps, Camp West, Tex.

Russell Teckemeyer, second lieutenant, inf., Camp Pike.

Walter Toeplemann, signal corps, on way to France.

Alfred Toepelmann, butcher company, on way to France.

William Weber, 57th in., Camp Logan, Tex.

Robert Wirka, machine gun company, France.

Herman Wolff, Panama canal zone.

Henry L. Metz, Great Lakes training station.

The Dane County Medical society will meet tonight at the country home of Dr. Herman Gilbert, Monona drive. Dr. H. P. Greeley will give a talk, illustrated by lantern slides, on his experiences in Labrador.

SEARCHLIGHTS PROVE REAL DEFENSIVE WAR WEAPONS; THIS TYPE WILL DEFEND AMERICAN COAST CITIES

Upper left-hand picture shows a searchlight battery drill by members of division of engineering corps. Upper right-hand picture shows a "close up" of one of the big lights. Lower picture shows battery of lights throwing shafts of light into the night to expose enemy airplanes hovering over a city. ....

The searchlight is playing an important part in the war as a weapon of defense. Powerful lights that throw light into the heavens are being constructed and formed into batteries to protect men in the trenches and even our own coast cities from attacks by enemy airplanes. The searchlights reveal the enemy planes and enable American and allied airmen and anti-aircraft gunners to pot them. The above pictures show some of these lights now being prepared for emergency work in some of our coast cities.

IMPLEMENT MEN MUST GET LICENSES

Application Must be Made to Food Administration

The following statement has been given by the food administration: "Licenses must be secured for firms engaged in the importation, manufacture, storage, and distribution of farm equipment including machinery and farm utensils of all kinds for farm use in the production of foods and feeds. No person shall after this date engage in or carry on this business without a license or they will subject themselves to the penalty prescribed by Congress.

"Application for licenses should be made to the License Division, Food Administration, Washington, D. C.

The secretary of agriculture is supervising and directing the licenses. The purpose of this move is to assure an adequate supply and equitable distribution of the machinery and to prevent local or general scarcity, monopolization or hoarding."

PERSHING CHOOSES FIRST ARMY HEAD

Brig. Gen. B. S. Foulois.

Brig. Gen. Benjamin S. Foulois, formerly chief of the air service of the American expeditionary forces, has been detached from that post and appointed by General Pershing as head of the air service of the "First Army." He will now be in active command of the aviators at the front. Colonel Robert N. Paddock will have Foulois' former post.

EMPRESS, 92, WAITS FREE ALSACE

The Empress Eugenie was 92 yesterday, and everyone will hope that her well-known wish that she may live to see France victorious and the lost provinces restored will be gratified. In that event it would be hard in history to match such a case, for it is 48 years since she left Paris in the ruin of her fortunes. The empress still takes a keen interest in affairs, and was godmother to Sir Douglas Haig's little son the other day; but in some ways she has passed into history.

There is no living person whose career and fate have been discussed and analyzed with such freedom over so long a period of years; and anyone who attempted to compile a bibliography with full attention to anecdotes and estimates of the empress would have a long task. Of all the many stories of her, perhaps the most striking is that which tells of her answer to a relative who was of a weaker mould: "You, my dear, are Louis XVI—I am Louis XIV!"

WIN FIRST PRIZE FOR BEST GARDEN

Otto W. Viebarth Leads Scanlon-Morris Employes in Contest

Otto W. Viebarth won the first prize offered by the Scanlon-Morris company for the best war garden. Mr. Viebarth is an employe of the company and entered the contest with several others. He will receive a $5 gold piece.

His garden is located on East Gorham street near the Scanlon-Morris plant. He worked early and late to attain the honor he won.

ADD EXTRA EVENTS TO AUTO CLASSIC

Two 10-Mile Heats and Final of Same Length to Precede Big Derby

Another race was added to the program scheduled for next Saturday at Speedway park. This event which is to precede the 100 mile motor derby, will be known as the Chicago handicap, and will be run in two preliminary heats of ten miles each and a final whirl over the same distance.

Without having any particular championship, this "warm up" is designed to entertain the crowd with two or three short, sharp brushes after the manner of the "preliminaries" at a boxing bout or wrestling match. It is undoubtedly a vastly better program arrangement from the spectators standpoint than the old custom of staging a single race at 500 or 300 miles.

All Stars Enter Prelim.

Virtually all the pilots listed for the derby are entered in the minor race. Dario Resta and Louis Chevrolet will be the scratch men in the preliminary heats, and the final will be fought out by the first three men in the faster heat and the first two in the slower.

One hopeful announcement made during the day was that officials of the American Automobile association have worked out a new scoring system which will be used here for the first time. The scoring at the Harkness handicap at Sheepshead bay two weeks ago was a sorry performance, keeping the spectators most of the time in ignorance of what was going on and finally returning the wrong man as winner.

NEW POSTOFFICE NOT TO BE BUILT AT PRESENT

Devine Gets Information in Conference With Government Officials

Madison will not have a new postoffice building until after the war ends.

This definite announcement comes from Postmaster William A. Devine, who returned Monday night from Washington where he was in conference with government officials.

Title to the property on Monona avenue has not been obtained by the government although it holds an option and abstracts are in the hands of the treasury department for investigation.

Postmaster Devine received permission to make minor changes in the present building in order to handle the increased volume of business. He will put on two more clerks at once and more later.

He recommended that an addition be built to the mailing platform in the rear of the federal building.

Mr. Devine called on Internal Revenue Commissioner Roper to discuss with him the matter of securing adequate quarters to carry on the work of the local revenue department.
